- Using CISDs in the market accurately
- Chart Examples
- CISD Cheatsheet (bonus)

Identifying Valid CISDs

- Bullish CISD → Closure above consecutive down close candles
- Bearish CISD → Closure below consecutive up close candles
- Pay extra attention to the word “consecutive”

Filtering Bad CISDs

- A bearish CISD is invalid if there's no closure below the consecutive up close candles
- A bullish CISD is invalid if there's no closure above the consecutive down close candles
- Pay extra attention to the word "consecutive"

Using CISDs in the Market Accurately

- CISD is not a pattern
- Don't treat CISD like a pattern, you will lose trades and blow your account
- Always use CISD in context of the high-timeframes

Chart Example #1

- $NQ during New York AM
- HTF Bias Aligned
- SMT to confirm Manipulation Phase
- Entry at CISD
- executed the trade live on stream*
